

Open Your Class With This Tomorrow- Committed

Options for instructors

In order to introduce students to the many different careers in and related to the field of psychology you can ask former students, or those in the school/community who have related careers to make a Flipgrid video explaining what their job entails, what type of training they needed and what they do on a day-to-day basis. You can also use the links to the American Psychological Association as an alternative.

Virtual Fair for Psychology Related Careers

This is an opportunity for you to explore careers that might be related to disciplines directly in psychology or related to psychology.

Complete a total of 5 Career Reviews after watching a selection of the videos/descriptions on the links below.

Use the following guide from the American Psychological Association (APA) which focuses on what you can do with a career in psychology.

<https://www.apa.org/education-career#careers> (scroll to the section titled For students interested in psychology).

If you do not find the careers you are interested in either the APA pamphlet or the collection of videos, you can also complete independent research to learn more about any of the careers in the chart above. If you opt for this option please include the source(s) you used in order to gain the information.

Directions: Fill in the table below for each presentation you watch/read about each job.

	Career/Major	How is this person's career related to Psychology?	How might this relate to something you want to do as a career?	How does this person's career seek to help others?
